Homework

THE Director of Education sent out quite recently a friendly document to-the schools of Hongkong. As a document, it must be quite unique in the annuls of education, for it said no less than this; that too many schools are setting homework, much especially in their junior departments.

Now, of course, it might be thought that the Director had only his teaching staff in mind. We have no doubt he did, for no matter how much homework is set for young Tommy or young Cheng, the teacher has to mark exactly forty times ns much !

Then the Director might have had Dad in mind, for at the last moment, generally late on Sunday evening, Dad has to pull up a chair, or address himself to such feats of memory as to the principal rivers of Europe, or in the case of young Cheng the correct prepositions governing a given case in the English language.

THE whole case of homework does need looking into, and we are by no means trying to he facetious when we throw in our lot behind the Education Department's advice. Yet in so doing, we know we are up against a solid wall of conservative opinion, especially in those schools which give tuition to Chinese students.

Dealing with homework in general, we should suggest that most homework set is valueless, except for the unusual child, that rare bird. who is a swot from the word "go." Most children are healthy young animals, who after being cooped up all day, just have to run off their wild spirits. Homework is merely a faint cloud on the horizon, with the rcsult that it is only mentioned five minutes before bedtime, or the last thing their mailbags, sat still and on Sunday night. In general, it is the Chinese parents who demand a lot expected to hold an inquiry .of homework, and who judge a school upon the merits of how much homework is set. This is possibly hangover from the old days, when a scholar was merely he who had committed to memory by a super-human feat, so many Chinese thousands of eduencharacters. But tion is not just a gigantle feat of memory, and teachers are not parret trainers.

Moscow, Apr. 11. Very well-informed sources told United Press International tonight that the Russians successfully orbited a man last Friday, but the astronaut is suffering "emotional strain." The reports added fuel to persistent rumours here that the Soviets have become the first to send a man into space and bring him back alive.

The sources, who have proved extremely reliable in the past, confirmed a report that the astronaut was still undergoing physical examination by Soviet scientists who found him suffering from after-effects of

These after-effects, they said, are not of a physical nature, but are emotional. It was believed that the astronaut was a professional test pilot and the son of a prominent aircraft designer.

In New York, Columbia Broadcasting System tonight broadcast a report from Moscow in which correspondent Marvin Kalb said he had confirmed the London Daily Worker story about a Soviet launching of a man into space through unofficial sources in the Soviet capital.

Kalb said the flier in question was probably the son of Sergei Hyushin, designer of the Hyushin jet planes. - UPI and AP.

WHEN BROTHER FOUGHT BROTHER

THE Amorican Civil War began a hundred years ago today, and was destined to change civilisation. Yet at first it seemed little different from the hundreds of other battles between brothers which had polluted the world for a little while and had then been forgotten in history.

It was true that the contestants had a larger background than was usual in such encounters: the individual states themselves were, in many cases, larger than the European countries where previous disputes had been worked out.

But the main issue appeared the same: the desire for Power. The North, ambitious, energetic, wealthy, rapidly becoming industrialised, was determined to bring back to the fold the "rebellious" Southern States—the land of "Ol' Man River" where life was gracious and stately and Europeanised. The South had parted company with the North be-

The Negroes also made excellent spies. Crossing the lines from the Southern States, they brought valuable scraps military intelligence about the size of the enemy armies, the He himself had never been position of his defences. And an anti-slavery man. He had they made even better soldiers.

Once the North realised that that a great number of men were the wars "I don't know what is on both sides: 620,000 killed or African homeland is as comdied from wounds or disease). it became logical that a good to American whites. many whites would escape death if their places in the ranks were taken by Negroes.

> Out of this opportunistic act by the whites came the Negro's salvation.

As Frederick Douglass, a former slave, put it: "Once let hunted and farmed). the black man get upon his in Africa-Nigeria, Mali, Togo, person the brass letters U.S.; let him get an eagle on his button17 new flags in one yearand a musket on his shoulder observers were impressed by the Justice, French Sophistication way a latent pro-Americanism and bullets in his pocket and also emerged. there is no power on earth which can deny that he has earned the right to citizenship in the United States."

So the war that began as a struggle for power became a war which, by force of circumstances, meant a new life for the enslayed Negro.

This aspect of the war has captured the imagination of the world so much that hundreds of the Free, although, curiously historians have bent the facts to broke out over slavery.

New York. THE one fashion field in which the Americans hold an unquestioned supremacy is that of sportswear.

This stems partly from their own more casual way of living, partly from the astonishing wealth of background and inspiration in the 50 states that constitute America, partly from a healthy belief that sportswear isn't something special you put on for the beach—it's ANY clothes you wear when you're not dressed

They never make, consequently, the mistake of European designers whose so-called casual wear is often degrees more formal and fabulous than their gala clothes, and whose more imaginative designs tend to look suspiciously like fancy-dress, however stunning they appear in colour photographs for the glossy magazines.

Even the most overwhelming combinations of colour, even the most shockingly original shapes, tend to look careless and unself-conscious, designed just for the heck of it and put on in much the same spirit, when it's an American designer producing them.

JAPANESE CHAMPION AND NO. 3 AMONG SIX MEN'S SEEDS ELIMINATED Two seeds out in truer-to-form women's section

Peking, Apr. 11. The table tennis rivalry between Japan and China was renewed here today when the Chinese produced several surprises in the singles events of the World Championships.

Nobuya Hoshino, the Japanese men's singles champion, was eliminated by the Chinese youth Chang Shih-ling the third round and in another upset Chuang Tse-tung beat the Japanese No. 3, Koji Kimura.

Chuang and Kimura would have met last Sunday night in ninth game of the Swaything Cup final if the Chinese had not taken a winning 5-3 margin and tonight's meeting was tengerly anticipated as both men had won two matches in that final.

Best performance

The other Japanese men got through third round matches safely, but most, including Ochiro Ogimura, were given bad frights by young Chinese players who were cheered to the limit by the partisan crowd of 15,000 in the Peking Workers' Gymnasium.

Oglinura took ave sets to heat the Chinese student Shou lan-sun, a member of the Youth feam who played in the Championships Seandinavian – last November. Ogimura lost a thrilling fourth set 21-23, used all his craft and perience to win the final set. Hashino was one of six seeded 1 layers climinated during the
